KEY WORDS: influenza virus, long noncoding RNA, RNA secondary structure, viral replication cycle

Principal Investigator: dr Marta Soszyńska-Jóźwiak

Research topic: long noncoding RNA - new aim of anti-influenza therapy

I. Project description

Influenza is a highly contagious disease, which occurs epidemic and occasionally pandemic. In recent years, cellular long non-coding RNAs have been identified that are essential for influenza virus multiplication and are not involved in modulating the immune response, some of which interact directly with influenza proteins. The main goal of our project is to study the structure of selected long non-coding RNAs for the presence of functional RNA motifs and to study their potential impact on the replication cycle of the influenza virus.

Additional information:

1. Research and doctoral theses shall be carried out within the SONATA 16 project no. 2020/39/D/NZ6/03267, entitled “ Long noncoding RNA - new aim of anti-influenza therapy”, funded by National Science Centre.
2. PhD students shall receive a stipend in the gross amount of ca 4300 PLN (3800PLN net), for the period of 36 months with possible extension.
3. PhD students shall be subject to social insurance, pursuant to article. 6 section 1 passage 7b of the act of October 13th, 1998 on the social insurance system (Journal of Laws of 2019, item 300, 303 and 730).
